

LUNT STUDENTS WORK TO HELP HAITI

In light of the devastating earthquake in Haiti, the Lunt School community is collecting donations to be sent to the American Red Cross. We are hearing repeatedly in the national media that the greatest assistance that we can give at this time is a cash donation.

Lunt School students have been exposed to many projects that help those who are in need. They have collected food, clothing, books and learning supplies for the needy and homeless. They have been involved in projects that support children with terminal illnesses, that bring smiles to the faces of senior citizens and that have helped stray animals wag their tails or purr. They have brought cheer to women and men who are serving our country on foreign shores.

Please provide your child with opportunities to do some chores around the house in order to earn money to help the people of Haiti. It is a valuable learning experience to ensure that the children perform some service to earn the money.

We will be accepting cash donations until Friday, January 29th.

Thank you in advance for your support. As the needs of the people of Haiti become clearer to the global community, you can expect to be hearing about other relief projects from the Lunt School community.
